Numb. 201.

THE Pennſylvania GAZETTE.

Containing the freſheſt Advices Foreign and Domeſtick.

From September 26. to October 5. 1732.

Wezel, on the Rhine, May 28.

FOUR Days ago paſſed by this Place, eleven large Veſſels with People of the Palatinate and elſewhere, Men, Women and Children, who by hard Uſage, intolerable Servitude, and Religious Grievances, have been conſtrained to leave their native Counrry, to go and ſettle in the Engliſh Colonies in America. They are to take Shipping in Holland. Some Days before arrived alſo very unexpectedly a Ship Load of Saltzburghers, with one of the King's Commiſſaries: Theſe made their formal Entry into this Town, accompanied by the Lutheran Preacher M. Demerath, and three Field Preachers, and the Body of the School, ſinging the fine Hymn, Wer nur den lieben Gott laſt walten, &c. They were conducted to the Church, where the Preacher above-named made an excellent Sermon ſuitable to the Occaſion: Afterwards, a Collection was made, which, by reaſon of the great Concourſe of People, and eſpecially of Perſons of Diſtinction, was very conſiderable; and the Colonel Daſſow alſo made a Collection among the Officers and Soldiers of his Regiment. From Church they were conducted to the Quarters prepared for them. Theſe poor baniſhed Wretches are overjoyed, that after ſo many Hardſhips put upon them in their own Country, they are come into a ſtrange Land, where they not only ſerve God freely according to their Conſciences, but meet with ſuch a charitable Reception in all reſpects, the Prince of Naſſau Idſtein having paid for their Paſſage to Wezel.

London, June 19. Five Servants belonging to Mr. Selby, a Whitſter, at Mitcham, having been bit by a mad Dog ſome time ago, four of them were dipt in Salt Water, and are like to do well; but the other, to whom his Maſter had lent a Horſe to go to Graveſend to be dipt, went another way in the Country and neglected the ſame; and this day he died in a raving Condition.

London, June 22. The Aſſociates and Truſtees for ſettling a new Colony in Georgia in America, met at their new Houſe in Old Palace Yard, Weſtminſter, for the firſt Time, when a Clergyman brought them from an unknown Perſon, a Bank Note of 100 l.

London, June 24. By the Charles, Capt. Watts, which arrived in the River on Tueſday laſt from Maryland, we learn, that the Hon. Benedict Leonard Calvert, Eſq; Brother to the Rt. Hon. the Lord Baltimore, Proprietor of Maryland, who had for ſome time been Governor of that Province under his Lordſhip, finding himſelf in an ill State of Health, and reſigning that Poſt, imbarked there in Capt. Watts for England, and ſailed the 18th of May; but that he died in the Paſſage the 1ſt of June, and was buried at Sea.

We hear that the Lord Baltimore and his Lady intend to embark for Maryland in or about Auguſt next.

London, June 26. Laſt Night Lieut. Smith with his Preſs Gang, belonging to the Edinburgh, went on board ſome Norway Ships lying in Hanover Hole, being Danes, Swedes, &c. to preſs ſome of the Men, ſeveral of whom were Engliſh; but they no ſooner got aboard, but all the Ships Crews in the Teer gathered together in a Body, and got their Handſpikes, Iron Crows, Hatchets, and other Weapons, and as faſt as the Preſs Gang got up the Sides of the Ship, they knock'd them into the Thames; yet notwithſtanding this Reſiſtance, the Preſs-Gang got again into the Ship, but being overpower'd, their Adverſaries got the Lieutenant, and were going to cut his Head off with one of the Hatchets, and would certainly have done it, had not a ſtout Fellow knock'd the Perſon down that was going to ſtrike the Blow, and at the ſame time took the Lieutenant in his Arms and flung him overboard, by which Means he ſaved his Life: After the Preſs-Gang was got into their Boat, ſome with broken Arms, others with their Ribs broke (who were afterwards carried to Deptford Yard to the Surgeon to be cured) the Ships Crews flung into the Boat at them, ſeveral Hanſpikes, Hatchets, and other deſperate perate Weapons, all which were brought into the publick Hall of the Admiralty, and a Complaint was likewiſe made to their Lordſhips.

Dublin, July 4. On Sunday the late Lord Chief Baron Rochford's Lady was found dead on her Knees in her Cloſet. She was well and hearty at Church twice on Sunday, and came home in the Evening, and retir'd (after her uſual manner) into her Cloſet. At her common Hour of Undreſſing, her Maid came to undreſs her; but finding her in her Cloſet on her Knees, ſhe retired for about half an hour; then came and found her in the ſame Poſture; ſo ſhe ſat down in a Chair expecting her Coming out: The Maid fell aſleep, and awaking about Two a Clock, in a Fright, ran to her Lady's Bed; and not finding her there, ſhe went to the Cloſet, and found her ſtill on her Knees.

Ratisbon, July 7. The laſt Letter written by the Evangelick Body to the Emperor, is now publiſhed, and is in Subſtance as follows.

THAT the Regency of Saltzburgh have acted in the Affair of the Departure of the Proteſtants, juſt as if there had never been any ſuch Thing as the Treaty of Weſtphalia, or they had never troubled themſelves to execute the Contents of it: That in their printed Papers they had treated the Proteſtants with Contempt: That ſome of the Proteſtants were driven away in a moſt cruel manner in the Depth of Winter, whilſt others were detained though they demanded Liberty to go: That throughout this Affair, ſeveral Artifices had been made uſe of, the Iniquity whereof would appear, if they were examined into by a local Commiſſion: That when the Term of St. George's Day drew near, a Negotiation was ſet on foot, to find out ſome Expedient to terminate this Affair in a friendly way: That the Evangelicks, tho' they had abundant Reaſon to queſtion the Sincerity of the Aſſurances given on the Part of Saltzburgh, did nevertheleſs come into it, hoping that his Imperial Majeſty's Monitories would have made ſome Impreſſion upon the Archbiſhop of Saltzburg's Mind: That Experience has ſhewn, that that Doubt was too well grounded, ſince far from executing the Declarations made on the Part of Saltzburgh, they ſtill continued to diſperſe the Proteſtant Families, placed Guards over them, to prevent their viewing their Eſtates; and inſinuated to ſeveral of them that they ſhould not go till they had ſold all that belonged to them, tho' they had not Time, neither was it in their Power ſo to do: That ſeveral of the Proteſtants had heavy Fines laid upon them, for ſinging and praying with their Neighbours; and others have been baniſhed not only the Dioceſs, but alſo the Empire: That the Evangelick Body had already implored the Emperor's Juſtice, as ſupreme Executor of the Treaty of Peace: That the Archbiſhop of Saltzburgh applied himſelf likewiſe to his Imperial Majeſty, but at a Time when it was almoſt too late to retrieve Matters, and after he had gained his Ends, by violating the Treaty of Weſtphalia with Impunity: That ſuch Caſes as were plainly decided by the ſaid Treaty, need not be tried over again: That it is too late to appoint a local Commiſſion: That the Evangelick Miniſters have tranſmitted an Account of all that is above to their reſpective Principals, and wait their Orders: and as there is nothing now to be expected on the Part of the Archbiſhop of Saltzburg, they leave it to his Imperial Majeſty's Juſtice to ordain what he ſhall judge proper on ſo urgent an Occaſion, &c.

Hague, July 8. The Miniſtry of Spain, who are only purſuing at this Day the Schemes long ſince formed by Cardinal Alberoni, are ſeriouſly intent upon rendring the Spaniſh Navy the moſt formidable in all Europe: They have already a Fleet of about 60 Men of War, and will ſoon make up their Number 100, by the Ships they are building in Old and New Spain, and buying up in England, at Genoa, and Amſterdam. But when they have done all, they will not be able to look the Maritime Powers in the Face.

Letters from the Emperor's Hereditary Countries in Germany, adviſe, that the People there begin to imitate the Saltzburghers; great Numbers daily profeſſing themſelves to be Proteſtants, and demanding the Privilege Jus emigrandi, or Liberty to depart: And they add, that ſeveral of them are actually arrived at Ratisbon.

Frankfort, July 16. They write from Saltzburgh, that moſt of the Workmen employ'd in the Saltpits of that Dioceſe, have declared themſelves Proteſtants, and are preparing to depart; which has the more embarraſſed the Regency, becauſe they cannot well do without them, and will find it a very difficult Matter to replace them with other Workmen.

Vienna, July 22. On Tueſday arrived here an Expreſs from Conſtantinople, which proceeded forward to Carelsbad; by Letters which he brought for private Perſons, we learn, that they were under great Conſternation in that Capital, becauſe the Perſians had broke the late Peace, and, beſides other Outrages, defeated a conſiderable Body of Turkiſh Troops.

Paris, July 27. We find that the taking of Oran, has diffuſed a general Joy throughout the Kingdom of Spain. Fireworks, Illuminations, Guns, Trumpets, Drums, Guittars, and all other Inſtruments of Peace, War, and Muſick, have publiſhed the Satisfaction of the People, as to the great Expence that has been made on this Occaſion; and ſince they have got ſomething for their Money, they ſeem well enough diſpoſed to raiſe more Armadas, and undertake new Enterprizes, whenever the King can look about him; for as they ſay, the Phyſicians obſerve, that a little Buſineſs and Employment, ſuch as acquiring new Countries, and the Conqueſt of Towns, unbends bends the Mind, and gives his Catholick Majesty more Relief than all the Remedies they can prescribe of the Galenical kind.

London, July 27. It is written from Alicant, the 16th Inst. N. S. That 8000 Men would be left in Oran; that the rest of the Troops were soon expected from thence at Alicant, on whose Arrival the Transports were to be discharged, the Court being exceeding well satisfy'd with the reuniting Oran to the Crown of Spain; and that no other Expedition would be undertaken this Year.

Monday next the Lord Viscount Howe will embark at Portsmouth on board his Majesty's Ship the Hector, for his Government of Barbadoes.

Paris, Aug. 2. Private Letters from Madrid say, they hourly wait there for the News of the Return of most part of the Spanish Fleet, into the Ports of Spain; being fully persuaded that his Catholick Majesty having recover'd the Town of Oran with its Dependencies, formerly in Possession of the Crown of Spain, will attempt to make no new Conquests; but that the main Business on that side now will be to improve the Fortifications, to furnish the Place well with all Sorts of Provisions, and to hold a strong Garrison there, in order to leave the Infidels no Hopes of retaking it.

On the 17th the Marquess de Castellar entertain'd all the Foreign Ministers, the Knights of the Golden Fleece, and other Persons of Distinction, on Occasion of the Taking Oran by the Troops of his Catholick Majesty.

BOSTON, Sept. 18.

The Man that struck the Woman with an Iron Spade at Rhode-Island, (as mention'd before) has had his Tryal, was found guilty of Murder, and received Sentence of Death.

Wednesday Evening last a Runaway Indian Fellow was committed to our Goal, for barbarously stabbing and murdering the Man that apprehended him.

Cambridge, in N. E. Sept. 9. We have received from Mr. Hollis, Nephew to the late pious and generous Thomas Hollis, Esq; of London; a fresh Confirmation of his Generosity and Regard to our College, in a very rich Addition to the Philosophical Apparatus; consisting of a curious Microscope, a large and exquisite Armillary Sphere, and a very costly Orrery, an Instrument, that this, or any other part of America, as far as we can learn, has never before been favoured with.

Marblehead, Sept. 16. Wednesday Night last, the House of one Grant at the Ferry about a Mile from Town, was burnt down to the Ground. It seems that the Family had before Night heat the Oven, and had fill'd the same with Apples and a Pye, and then went about a quarter of a Mile to visit a Neighbour, leaving the House empty; but soon discovered the Flames, tho' too late to extinguish them. The next Morning they drew out their Batch, and found it not too much baked. 'Tis thought that the Fire took a Post of the House thro' the Defect of the Oven.
